Permanent Link to Norway proves Russian interference

2021/08/05

Norway has electronic proof that Russian forces disrupted GPS signals during recent NATO war games, according to a report in Reuters news service. The Scandinavian country and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member has demanded an explanation from its neighbor. "We recognize Russia's right to exercise and train its capacities [but] it is not acceptable that this kind of activity affects security in Norwegian air space," stated the Norwegian defense ministry. Finland and Norway published claims in November that Russia may have intentionally disrupted GPS signals before and during NATO military exercises. The radio-frequency interference also affected the navigation of civilian air traffic in the Arctic. Both countries protested to Russia, which dismissed the allegations. "We gave them the proof," Norwegian Defence Minister Frank Bakke-Jensen stated publicly. Russia demurred, with Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov terming the Norwegian allegations "a fantasy," and said it would conduct its own investigation. "To be a neighbor of Russia you need to be patient," added Bakke-Jensen. Could Russia have targeted Norway intentionally? The minister replied: "They were exercising very close to the border and they knew this will affect areas on the other side." November saw NATO's largest exercise in decades, involving forces from 31 countries in an area stretching from the Baltic Sea to Iceland.
